

CapAir Delay, Disruption, and Rebooking Policies

Purpose: This document explains CapAir's policies for flight delays, cancellations, missed connections, overbooking, denied boarding, rebooking, refunds, and customer care during travel disruptions. It helps customers understand when rebooking options, refunds, travel credits, meal vouchers, hotel accommodations, or denied boarding compensation may apply.

1. Disruption Options

CapAir customers may have several options when travel does not operate as scheduled.

Disruption options may include:

- Rebooking on the next available CapAir flight
- Alternate CapAir itinerary options when available
- Same-day standby when available
- Travel credit when applicable
- Refund to the original form of payment when eligible
- Meal vouchers for qualifying controllable disruptions
- Hotel accommodations for qualifying overnight controllable disruptions
- Denied boarding compensation when required by applicable law

Available options may vary by disruption type, cause, fare type, route, aircraft, customer location, remaining flight availability, and operational needs.

2. Controllable and Uncontrollable Disruptions

CapAir classifies disruptions as either controllable or uncontrollable.

Disruption Type	Description	Examples
Controllable disruption	A disruption within CapAir's control	Mechanical issues, crew scheduling, aircraft servicing, baggage loading, technology issues, operational staffing
Uncontrollable disruption	A disruption outside CapAir's control	Severe weather, air traffic control, airport closures, security events, government restrictions, safety events outside CapAir's control

Customer care benefits such as meal vouchers and hotel accommodation are generally available only for qualifying controllable disruptions.

3. Customer Notifications

CapAir may notify customers about delays, cancellations, diversions, gate changes, rebooking options, refund eligibility, and disruption assistance.

Notifications may be delivered through:

- Email
- SMS text message
- Airport announcements
- Gate updates
- Website or flight-status updates

Customers should keep contact information current so CapAir can provide timely schedule and disruption updates.

4. Flight Delays

A flight delay occurs when a flight departs or arrives later than scheduled.

When a flight is delayed, CapAir may provide:

- Updated departure or arrival information
- Rebooking options when available
- Same-day standby options when available
- Refund options when the delay qualifies and the customer chooses not to travel
- Meal, hotel, or transportation support when the delay is controllable and meets eligibility requirements

Delay options may vary based on the length of the delay, the cause of the delay, and available CapAir flights.

5. Significant Delay Thresholds

For CapAir policy purposes, a significant domestic delay is three hours or more.

Customers affected by a significant delay may be eligible to rebook without additional charge or request a refund if they choose not to travel.

6. Flight Cancellations

If CapAir cancels a flight, customers may be offered available recovery options.

Cancellation options may include:

- Rebooking on the next available CapAir flight
- An alternate available CapAir itinerary
- Same-day standby when available
- Travel credit when permitted

- Refund to the original form of payment if the customer chooses not to travel
- Customers should review the offered itinerary and select the option that best fits their travel needs.

7. CapAir Rebooking Rules

CapAir will attempt to rebook customers affected by qualifying delays, cancellations, missed connections, or schedule changes on a CapAir-operated flight.

Rebooking Options

- Rebooking on the next available CapAir flight
- Rebooking on an alternate CapAir itinerary when available
- Same-day standby when available
- Customer support assistance for complex rebooking needs

Rebooking Cost

Customers will not be charged a change fee or fare difference when CapAir rebooks them because of a qualifying airline-initiated cancellation, significant delay, or missed connection caused by CapAir.

CapAir-Only Rebooking

CapAir does not guarantee rebooking on another airline. Rebooking options are based on available CapAir flights and operational recovery options.

8. Missed Connections

A missed connection occurs when a customer cannot board a connecting flight.

Cause	CapAir Handling
CapAir-caused missed connection	CapAir will attempt to rebook the customer on the next available CapAir itinerary at no additional charge.
Weather or air traffic control missed connection	CapAir will attempt to rebook the customer when available, but meals, hotels, and transportation may not be provided.
Customer-caused missed connection	Standard fare rules, no-show rules, or same-day standby options may apply.

Customers should remain near the gate and monitor updates during delays or connection changes.

9. Overbooking and Denied Boarding

Overbooking may occur when more customers hold confirmed reservations than available seats.

Voluntary Denied Boarding

Before denying boarding involuntarily, CapAir will first seek volunteers willing to take a later flight in exchange for compensation or travel benefits offered by CapAir.

Involuntary Denied Boarding

If not enough volunteers are available, CapAir may deny boarding to customers according to boarding priority, check-in status, fare type, special assistance needs, and operational requirements.

Customers who are involuntarily denied boarding after meeting check-in, documentation, and boarding requirements may be eligible for:

- Rebooking on an alternate CapAir flight
- A written explanation of denied boarding rights
- Compensation required by applicable law
- Refund options when applicable

10. Denied Boarding Compensation

Customers who are involuntarily denied boarding from an oversold flight may be eligible for compensation based on the arrival delay caused by the denied boarding.

Domestic Arrival Delay	Compensation
0 to 1 hour	No compensation
1 to 2 hours	200% of the one-way fare, up to the applicable legal limit
Over 2 hours	400% of the one-way fare, up to the applicable legal limit

International Arrival Delay	Compensation
0 to 1 hour	No compensation
1 to 4 hours	200% of the one-way fare, up to the applicable legal limit
Over 4 hours	400% of the one-way fare, up to the applicable legal limit

Customers may not be eligible for denied boarding compensation if they fail to meet check-in, documentation, or boarding requirements, or if denied boarding results from safety, security, aircraft substitution, or other legally excluded circumstances.

11. Meal Vouchers

CapAir may provide a meal voucher or reasonable meal reimbursement when all of the following conditions are met:

- The disruption is within CapAir's control.
- The customer must wait 3 hours or more for the next available CapAir flight.
- The customer remains at the airport during the disruption.

Meal vouchers may not be provided for uncontrollable disruptions such as weather, air traffic control, airport closures, security events, or government restrictions.

12. Hotel Accommodations

CapAir may provide hotel accommodations when all of the following conditions are met:

- A controllable delay or cancellation requires an overnight stay.
- The customer is away from their home city.
- CapAir cannot rebook the customer to their destination on the same day.

Hotel accommodations are subject to availability. If hotel space is unavailable, CapAir may provide reimbursement guidance or alternate support when appropriate.

13. Refund Eligibility

Customers may be eligible for a refund when:

- CapAir cancels the flight and the customer chooses not to travel.
- CapAir significantly delays the flight and the customer chooses not to travel.
- CapAir significantly changes the schedule and the customer chooses not to travel.
- CapAir cannot provide a purchased optional service.
- CapAir downgrades the customer to a lower cabin and applicable fare rules require refund handling.

Refunds for qualifying airline-initiated cancellations or significant schedule changes should be issued to the original form of payment when required by policy or applicable law.

14. Travel Credits

CapAir may offer travel credits when:

- The customer chooses not to receive a refund where a credit is permitted.
- The customer cancels or changes a flight under fare rules that provide credit.
- The customer accepts credit as part of a disruption option.

Travel credits are subject to expiration, transferability, and use rules in CapAir's flight change and cancellation policies.

15. Baggage During Rebooking

When CapAir rebooks a customer due to a disruption, CapAir will make reasonable efforts to route checked baggage to the customer's updated destination.

Customers should keep baggage claim tags until travel is complete. If baggage is delayed, lost, or damaged, customers should report the issue to a CapAir representative before leaving the airport whenever possible.

16. Special Assistance During Disruptions

CapAir will make reasonable efforts to assist customers who require additional support during disruptions.

Additional support may apply to:

- Customers with mobility assistance needs
- Customers traveling with medical equipment

- Unaccompanied minors
- Customers traveling with service animals
- Customers traveling with pets in cabin

Customers requiring special assistance should contact a CapAir representative as early as possible.

17. Customer Responsibilities

Customers are responsible for:

- Monitoring flight status updates
- Keeping contact information current
- Arriving at the airport with enough time for check-in, baggage drop, security, and boarding
- Being present at the gate before boarding closes
- Contacting CapAir before departure if they choose not to travel
- Retaining receipts when requesting reimbursement

Customers who do not meet check-in, documentation, or boarding requirements may lose access to some rebooking, refund, or compensation options.
